BIKING IN EARLY SPRING 2010

JANUARY 31, 2010 | ANNA

Los Alamitos

On one of our few relatively warm January (2010) days Dick and I unfolded our Brompton bikes and drove them down to Los Alamitos Creek in the Almaden Valley. We rode from the lake to the end of the bike trail, about 10 miles. It was a very pleasant hour or so.

We can always count on someone's asking about the bikes, which we agree are rather spiffy. In years past we've even had inquiries from kids, especially boys in the age range 10-12. We no longer any attention from the kids, but we do a lot of marketing with folks our own age—I had to push an old guy out of the way to take this photo!
