HIKING AT THE PINNACLES

On Valentine's Day (February 14, 2015) we drove down to Soledad to hike for the very first time ever on the WEST side of the park (back in the day we often did family hikes on the other side). It was beautiful weather and a busy day on the hiking trails. We did the Balconies Cave trail, although we passed on the cave itself – it was a little too slippery and steep for us oldsters.

On the way back home we stopped for a late lunch at La Fuente, a cute little Mexican restaurant in Soledad. The food was delicious!
