WALKING THE STANFORD “DISH”

JUNE 7, 2017 | ANNA

In early June 2017 we parked at the Stanford bookstore and walked through part of the campus and on up to the Stanford “Dish” (a radio telescope), a popular trail for students, faculty and staff, and nearby residents.

It used to be one of Dick’s favorite running routes, although back in the “old days” it was a gravel path that the university encouraged people NOT to use. The fact that he and many others did anyway encouraged the powers that be to make it official.
