

News from Nan

NEWS 'N' VIEWS

AMAZING AND AMUSING ART AT THE CANTOR MUSEUM

FEBRUARY 2, 2019 | ANNA

On January 27, 2019, after attending the Sunday church service at Stanford Memorial Church, we spent an hour at the Cantor art museum (also on campus). We enjoyed their traveling collections of African and Asian art, which we thought were particularly creative and entertaining.

Here are a few examples.

Guess who?!

Who can resist poking a little fun at the Brexit mess?! This one was also created by an African artist.

These remind me of the "cat glasses" I had way back when.

it looks like something out of the Jack Daniels showroom, but it's actually a custom coffin.

Reclining Buddha (wood), by an Asian sculptor

◀ 2019 ◀ CALIFORNIA ◀ CANTOR ART MUSEUM ◀ JOHNSON ◀ STANFORD UNIVERSITY ◀ VAN RAAPHORST